Summary:

The Comprehensive Plan (TCP) is an interactive methodology, actual printed step by step plan for the transformation of society, and an action adventure fictional book.

The Interactive methodology is founded on the concept of metamorphosis, using the transformation of a caterpillar into a butterfly, as a model for the transformation of society. Through the Unity Network and the Community Elections anyone can input ideas, and we interactively prioritize them. Our goal is the completion of a simple to follow step by step plan. The first step gets the most resources and focus but our goal is to eventually implement the entire plan just like the many agenda items listed at a meeting.

Current Top priorities for TCP include initiating the Alpha version of the CommUnity Elections to be able to start prioritizing all the ideas and evolve the plan in an interactive way that everyone can participate with. Anytime you see a "Vote Link:" you can click on that link to vote for priorities in the Plan. Also we are writing a novel that can visualize within an epic story, the application of TCP in a real world setting.

True Story: In the deep jungles of the Yucatan peninsula, the last Mayan king worked with his priests and librarians to prepare for the battle to safeguard the last remaining Mayan scribes. The time had come to guard and safe keep the Mayan written language from the european conquistadors who were about to launch their attack and begin a bloody battle.

Purpose

- To document and teach the methodology of our network, the primary theory we bring to the world, is that it may be impossible to solve the global crises as separate fragmented problems, and that the only solution that may work is a comprehensive one that is applied through integration with all segments of society simultaneously.
- To document and provide a guide for the transformation of society using a simple step by step plan, but allow for total interactivity for updating and current applicability.
- To educate the public about the diversity of solutions that they may not even know about.
- To bring hope to people who don't currently see a linear solution to our collective problems and global crisis, because maybe there is no linear solution, and only a cyclical transformative solution will work, and this may be the first time they are learning about a cyclical transformative solution.
- To get people excited about transformative politics and ideas by introducing them in the form of a novel, and eventually it could even become a movie, that gives people a real life experience of what would happen to the world if a transformative political and cultural movement succeeded.

In that same context, our goal is to show that a successful transformative political and cultural movement would be a great asset to humanity and all of the species that live on our planet. The Comprehensive Plan model focuses on the transformation of the root systemic infrastructure of our society, and works with the day to day active lives of citizens to enhance each individuals current life experience as the primary product of the transformation process. Therefore if successful the transformation will not only allow individuals to continue their existing lifestyle and life experiences for themselves and their children, but our goal is actually to enhance the life user experience for everyone.

more to come . . .

Summary / Prelude:

The book leads off in present day Guatemala where an oil cartel is investigating a small oil reserve in the heart of the tropical jungles. During their surveys a small team happen upon two young mayan warriors who are quickly killed. It becomes evident that the mayan warriors were protecting a small underground temple. Eventually within the temple incredible discoveries are learned including a few destroyed mayan books and two ancient artifacts. The artifacts happen to be of high interest to the elite family elders who own the oil cartel, and its dated older than the maya themselves.

The next chapter takes us back to the mid-evil jungles of the Yucatan in the year 1697. The spanish conquistadors have been engaged in the slaughtering and genocide of the indigenous mayan cultures for 200 years. At this point the only high level mayan scholars alive in the world, who hold the key to the historical record of the mayan written language are Popo Vu, the last mayan king of the Etza Empire, and his handful of spiritual librarians.

The Etza people fight back and violently and mercifully slash spanish soldier heads off, and hang them to dry on poles in the sun. The spanish conquistadors, embarrassed by their inability to destroy this last mayan holdout, prepare and eventually launch a small army to attack the last mayan capital that sits on an island in the middle of the lake. With boats vs. canoes, and bow and arrows vs guns, a huge gory and bloody battle ensues, with the complete slaughtering of soldiers, women and children.

By the end of the second chapter the last 5,000 books of the mayan written language are burning. The last high level intellects and scholars of the maya are dead. The cultural genocide is complete. But as the last mayan king is bleeding out before he dies, with his last breath, he orders three of his soldiers to initiate the most secret and high priority mission of the entire mayan culture; to take a small stash of books and artifacts to a pre-designated secure location, and protect them for generations.

Flash forward more than 300 years to an office meeting where elite executives are teleconferencing with holograms, on the 180th floor of a recently completed New York tower built in 2025. The focus of the conversation, that they bring out on the table, is an ancient relic that was found in the Yucatan jungles, and they want to understand the power of the artifact so they can use it for themselves. At this point the artifact has still not been decoded, but has been identified as a control mechanism for mind opening and activation techniques they want use for control against the general population.

Luckily the People's Global Movement has been active for many decades and is extremely close to engaging the next level of The Comprehensive Plan (TCP), but 85.71% (6/7ths) agreement is needed within real-time meetings. It has taken many years to increase the agreement up above 80%, but with over 10,000 people voting, only 2.35%, or about 200 more people are need to achieve agreement. Once agreement is achieved, over $1 billion will be injected into the movement, greatly accelerating the plan and initiating production of many basic life necessities to billions of people.

The real-time meetings are very intense, and emotions run high as the group try to get the last 200 hold outs to agree to the plans amendments and be able to launch the next level of The Comprehensive Plan. Once successful the know this will change their lives and support the lives of billions of people across the world as hundreds of new programs are activated. No one wants to wait an other day, but agreement becomes difficult and continues to allude the movement.

Simultaneously a plot has been initiated against the Peoples Global movement by the elite. This murderous plot has been launched to decapitate the movement. In chapter 5 the current real-time leadership are just minutes away from eradication, and the mole plans on getting his team in a essential power positions to severely cripple the movement before the next level of The Compressive Plan can be initiated.

The saga continues with the back and forth internal and external battles between the People and the corporate elite trying to crush their dreams, but The Comprehensive Plan has united a strong core that continues to shine and be supported. Even if The Comprehensive Plan hits the next level of achievement, there will still be huge obstacles in its implementation, and every step of the way will be a battle of the minds and hears of the people to win over the corporate powers systems of the planet.

This novel is intend to be interactive, and anyone can help edit, as well as even help write the novel itself. Disagreements on the direction the novel will take are no problem, as many different stories and endings can evolve, and the final product may include many versions, or even a saga with directional turns that the reader themselves can choose to end up in different outcomes.

Enjoy . . .

Chapter 1

Present Day Guatemala

“So what the hell are we doing in these jungles again?”

“This is the future of oil my friend”, with new technology we can get this oil pumped out within the next ten years, and triple our yields”.

“Whoa, watch out with that machete man!”

The jungles are thick with vines, and besides the sound of machete cutting, “slash, sling”, you can hear an endless symphony of birds, beetles, monkeys, and other creatures busily communicating and traveling around in the thick jungle heat to find food.

The two men have slowly cut a narrow low path at a snails pace, just a few feet a minute, and are surrounded on all sides by wild jungle except for the skinny and low freshly cut path behind them.

“We are getting no where, this could take forever.”

“Look here”, the older man says pulling a map out of his pocket while crouching down to rest his back, “this is where we are, and we want to get here”. He points to a slight opening in the jungle, and indicates that it is only a few millimeters between their current location and the opening. “We should get through this any minute now.”

“Well thank god, I’m getting eaten alive” says the young handsome twenty-something old, as he flicks an other beetle off his shoulder before reaching for his water jar. He takes long gulps with his muscular arm protruding from his tight “IheartNY” shirt, and then brushes his light brown hair from his cleanly shaven face. Looking at his hazel eyes, one can tell he is out of place in the deep jungles, but not as bad as the guys in suites who stayed behind at camp.

“I still can’t believe I’m here, tell me again, how long have you been doing this?”

“Oh I got involved with the company years ago. and they kept pushing me to this one area, and we kept telling them that there’s nothing here. But as I told you before, last month using the Zonic5x scanner, they found a resource signature that required ground verification. The first 3 times the jungle was so thick we couldn’t get through, so that is where you came in to help us find the right angle trajectory to cut our way into the opening.” Says the older man as he continues to cut and chop closer and closer to what seems to be non-stop thick jungle, but actually is just a few feet way from opening up into the meadow.

“Hey look there, I think I see somethin”, shouts the younger man.

He sees the glistening of what could be an eyeball of an animal, just a few feet away. Then he sees the movement of an arm, and the slashing noise of metal through the jungle brush and vines.

Out of the jungle camouflaged backdrop almost magically pops out an incredibly muscular mayan warrior covered from head to with black and red battle paints. An arrow whizzes by and he hears a warrior scream as a knife slashes through branches just a few inches from the older mans body.

As the blade swings towards his neck he leaps back and dives to the ground.

The warrior raises his blade for the final blow, chanting some type of death poem, his younger partner jumps out and blows the warrior away with 5 consecutive shots of his glock 45.

The other warrior runs back through the bushes and positions himself up behind some boulders and starts launching arrows inches from the younger mans head. They fire back but the warrior ducks behind the boulder, but it allows them to get closer by running through the gap caused by the slashed bushes from the now dead warrior lying on the ground that they have to jump over. They find and hide behind a large tree and can see to their left that the bushes lead out to a sizable meadow.

Arrows continue to whizz by, but the they are safe behind the tree, for now. They sense a break from the bombardment, and fire their gun while leaning around the side of the tree hitting the area near the warrior. They notice with their new viewpoint that the warrior is not behind a boulder, but behind some type of carved stone monument that seems to be connected to a wall the blend into some bushes that seem to be extending up a hill.

The warrior screams a piecing death scream, jumps out from above the stone monument and charges the tree while firing arrows. They lurch back behind the tree and the older man begins to flee towards the meadow. The other takes two steps back, dodges an arrow whizzing by, and fires two shots into the warriors chest. He drops to the ground while still trying to fire arrows. Grabbing his chest his body goes limp and you can see blood spattered all over his face especially under his chin.

He walks up to the lone warrior with his gun pointed at his head. The warrior weakly lifts his head towards the man and seems to focus his eyes through the mans head in a soulful gaze.

He can't believe his eyes that he is witnessing the death of this warrior, and as his focus resets onto the warriors eyes, he locks on his peoples and feels a jolt of emotion extend though his body from his heart and throat. The sensation only last a moment and the warrior begins to speak softly sill gazing into the mans eyes.

“Anima kat ti bensa quat lang tut” comes out of the warriors mouth even though his mouth barely moves. His eyes begin to roll back inside his head, as his head falls back towards the earth.

The man then re-aims his gun, and pulls the trigger watching the warriors head jolt back and immediate limpness extends through the now lifeless body.

The two men look at each other from afar and silently acknowledge that what they just experienced was unbelievable.

They look back towards the stone monument and begin to walk towards it.

The younger man says “holy shit, this is temple, this is a temple, I think this is a temple”.

The other responds “Lets get back, the boss is gonna get a kick outa this.”

As they go back through the hole they had cut, they step over the first warriors body and look back at the other while shaking their heads in disbelief. They then disappear into the jungle as they start the long trek back to base camp.

Chapter 2 (storyboard)

1697 - Etza Empire

The Spanish conquistadors have been engaged in the slaughtering and genocide of the indigenous Mayan cultures for 200 years. A Jesuit priest has made it his personal mission to destroy the library of cultural heritage of the Maya, and burn every last book. The Spaniard conquistadors are embarrassed that after 200 years, they still can't beat the so-called "pagan uncivilized tribes" of the Maya empire, but in reality the ancient Maya are highly intellectual and very intelligent with one of the biggest libraries of knowledge of the time.

At this point the only high-level Mayan scholars alive in the world, who hold the key to the historical record of the Mayan written language, is Popo Vu, the last Mayan king of the Etza Empire, and his handful of spiritual librarians.

The Spaniards are building one of their key royal roads directly through the area of the Etza Empire, but they still haven't been able to finish it because of the constant attacks from the Maya. The Etza people fight back violently and mercifully slash Spanish soldier heads off, and hang them to dry on poles in the sun.

The Spanish conquistadors, embarrassed by their inability to destroy this last Mayan holdout, decide to prepare for the last expedition to conquer the capital once and for all. The Mayan capital of Etza is no small feat to attack, because the city fortress sits on an island in the middle of a lake. So the Spaniards prepare for over a year, building a huge war ship called a Galiota, and ready themselves to battle against the fierce Mayan warriors.

Eventually the day comes and they launch a small army to attack the last Mayan capital that sits on an island in the middle of the lake. The Galiota fits over 100 Spanish soldiers armed and ready to defend their ship and attack the Mayans. The huge ships of the Spaniards approach the small canoes of the Etza. The Maya grip their bows a little tighter, while the Spanish get their fingers a little closer to the trigger of their guns.

The Etza form a huge arc of canoes blocking the passage of the Spanish Galiota from getting to the capital. As the ship approaches, the commander orders the soldiers to stand down and wait. Once the Galiota is in range of the Etza canoes, the Mayan warriors begin to bombard a wall of arrows raining down on the Spanish ships.

The Spanish use small shields to block the arrows, but some get through and you can hear the screams of the soldiers getting hit. A few soldiers yell out that they should fire back, but the commander orders everyone to wait. Within minutes the commander loses control when a single soldier fires his gun at the canoes, and then all hell breaks loose.

Bow and arrows vs guns, a huge gory and bloody battle ensues, with the complete slaughtering of warriors, soldiers, women and children. As the spanish soldiers get closer to landing at the edges of the Etza capital, the attack from the warriors increase as they leap onto the ship. Yet the spanish soldiers hold the edge with their guns, and the Etza begin to retreat.

As the spanish soldiers begin to slowly but surly encroach on the capital itself, the residents begin to flee and the slaughter increases as the spanish shoot and slash women and children the same as warriors. Complete chaos consumes the capital and it is obvious that the spanish will take the capital.

By the end of the second chapter the last 20,000 books of the mayan written language are burning. The last high level intellects and scholars of the maya are dead. The cultural genocide is complete. But as the last mayan king is bleeding out before he dies, with his last breath, he orders a handful of his soldiers to initiate the most secret and high priority mission of the entire mayan culture; to take a small stash of books and artifacts to a pre-designated secure location, and protect them for generations.

Chapter 3 (storyboard)

New York Skyline Board Room - 10 Years After Present Day

Flash forward more than 300 years to an office meeting where elite executives are teleconferencing with holograms, on the 180th floor of a recently completed New York tower built in 2025. The focus of the conversation, that they bring out on the table, is an ancient relic that was found in the Yucatan jungles, and they want to understand the power of the artifact so they can use it for themselves. At this point the artifact has still not been decoded, but has been identified as a control mechanism for mind opening and activation techniques they want to use to control the general population.

Then out pops this little girl with blond hair, who tumbles out of the ceiling panels, lands on the board room table doing backflips across to the other side, springs of the end, does a full arc, sticks a perfect landing, and bows. Just before they try to grab her, she leaps up, runs across the table, grabs the artifact, and dashes out the door and is gone.

The chase ensues, but the the clever and tiny girl is always one step ahead. She goes up in the duct systems and gets up onto the roof. A zip line awaits and she flies from one building to an other, already set up for her escape. She is embraced by her gang on the other side and they all flee to their getaway transportation.

Yet we find out later that the artifact on the table was just a replica. And the saga continues...

Chapter 4 (storyboard)

The Global People's Meeting

A boy is running through the jungle, jumping small ravines, and kicking off trees as he leaps and bounds down the hillside towards a small village clearing off in the distance.

The time is approaching the start of the most important global meeting for years, and the boy is going to be late so he is running as fast as he can towards the closet village with a satellite internet hook up to beam his voice across the world.

“Is he here yet?”, they say on the call, “No, still waiting”. Over 10,000 people are all ready to go but the key presenter to get started for that particular agenda item, is so far a no show, and it starts in just a few minutes.

The boy looks at his own Moon Clock watch and it ready 69.27:45% and ticking, and the presentation goes live at 75% exactly. He continues dashing down the trail towards the town. The entire Plan rests on this 15 minutes presentation that has the possibility of convincing about 250 people to enact The Comprehensive Plan. This could be the day that the Plan gets enough support to finely reach the next level. The level leaps the current $55 million dollar global budget of organizing into a $1 billion dollar rapid expansion including the initiation of essential basic life necessities that can eventually support billions of lives.

Jumping over streams, and climbing small hills the boy continues, but is slowing down cause he is out of breath. Nothing can stop him though, and he continues his trek towards the town.

“We are just going to have to present with out him” says one of the other facilitators who is in charge of switching the presenters live to speak to the 10,000+ people on the line. They are almost done with previous segment introducing the comprehensive plan's basic structure, and now is their chance to make the final 15 minute push on the most important updates before the final vote. They need the boy cause he seems to be the key to people connecting the dots and understanding the importance of the plan, and they only need 250 more supportive votes to enact the next level of The Comprehensive Plan.

Exactly 75.00:00% Moon Clock arrives and passes and the boy is still not there, so Darien takes over in his place introducing the first three amendments to the plan that could change people's mind and vote for its implementation.

The boy is just 500 meters away from the station, but he still had to cross a large river to make it to the other side where the station is location. As he runs up to the river, the boat is just pulling away from the dock, and the boy runs to the end of the dock and leaps and barely grabs on to the railing of the boat as it is pulling away. Five minutes later he arrives.

Yay your here, as they strap his head cap on and log him into a screen view for jumping into the presentation. The last two items are presented, and the vote takes place.

The final tally is 8,653 votes of support, and 1046 people who are not ready. The group sighs that they will have to wait over a year to get an other chance to enact the plan, but it is all but a certainty unless something major happens to derail the process, as there is less than 100 people who are now needed to support the implementation for the next level of The Comprehensive Plan.

Chapter 5 (pre storyboard)

The Mole

Chapter 5 has not been started yet, but will be about the mole within the global peoples movement. The mole infiltrated the highest levels of the Global People's Movement and a plot is set in motion to decapitate one of the primary head groups of the Peoples Movement. Because the structure of the Peoples Movement is nodule, and many different local groups can function as a head, the elite mole knows that there is only so much they can accomplish by simply taking out this one key group. Yet this infiltration can cause a Major set back, and the elite hope for a result where the next vote to implement The Comprehensive Plan will be filed and the vote will result in substantially less votes than they were expecting to have. This could stall the implementation for an other two years.

Introduction to Ideas & Projects of The Comprehensive Plan

The ideas and projects of The Comprehensive Plan (TCP) are our collective attempt to create a step by step guide to implement a integrated solution to our global crises and enhance the “user experience” of living on planet earth. The most important thing to understand about TCP is that our goal is integrated implementation as a conceptual whole. Any single solution without integrated understanding of how it effects all other aspects of humanity and the planet can cause harm just as much as it may be helping a small segment of society. With the TCP our goal is to look at the whole plan as an integrated system, so we are better able to compensate and mitigate issues and problems within any one sector of society as we build a transformative model. Even though it would be amazing to implement and accomplish the entire TCP, realistically we will focus on the top priorities just like the first agenda items of a meeting. The order, priority, and the ideas/projects themselves are all relative to the time period we are in, and can change based on public voting and the input of new ideas. To interact with TCP and submit your own ideas just go to the website: <http://TheComprehensivePlan.com>

Although each idea/project is listed in step by step order, they are all interconnected together and feed off of one an other. Currently the steps stated in this document are NOT established through democratic vote and are subject to change based on your voting and input. Within each section at least one or more “steps” / priority projects are described clearly explaining the idea/project. Then each section goes on to explain the integration of the steps and projects within that section of the TCP and reference systems and methodology as needed (for more methodology information see the Methodology documentation. In some way this will read like a manual or text book for applying solutions to problems, except that many times the solutions we propose have nothing to do with the problems that we intend to solve with them, and you may not understand how these ideas/projects will solve specific global and local crisis and problems until you understand the integrated aspects of how they all synchronize with each other, which is the comprehensive aspect of the plan, and the purpose of this document.

It is important to note that the steps of the comprehensive plan are not ordered based on their relationship to one an other and the projects areas and categories. The steps are ordered by the priority for implementation. At the end of each step and project listing, there is a link to the category and related projects and ideas that can be supported.

Also note: Internal “Backbone” plan URA TCP is an external plan based on external projects and priority voting of the public based primarily on popularity. Therefore it is also essential to have a organizational internal backbone plan to support the external projects and priorities. The backbone plan as well as the components of that plan can also be part of the TCP but may not ever be a top priority. The Internal Backbone plan is only controlled and voted on my active workers within the network.

Third section: Link to project category and related ideas and programs.

Section Outline:

Note: The sections will continue adding one addition idea to each section. Section seven will have seven idea/projects in it. More work will be done on the order and priority of each project or idea.

LIST ALL current options for Community Elections Voting, and then some... (At least URL voting options)

Level One: #1 Top Priority:

1. CommUnity Elections

It is important to note, that the #1 top priority of the Unity Network will be decided through the annual community elections process, and until a annual election has taken place, this could be a year or more away, we will not have a agreed upon top priority. For the purpose of creating an example of what The Comprehensive Plan will look like, we are using our current top priority even though it is certain to change as the Community Elections are an internal core structure of the network, as opposed to an external project which people are usually more exacted about supporting.

The Community Elections System is an idea we have been working on for over 2 years, and we are finely launching the Alpha stage. You can vote in the current Level 1 Election by clicking here: <http://wc.tc/voteL1>, it only takes 1 minute. The general process is that anyone can input any idea, and then the community votes on them and the good ideas can bubble to the top. The goal is to help prioritize the issues and ideas in a way that the masses can get involved in, cause it is all based on simple fast click voting, but can also allow donations, volunteering, and very advanced voting and ranking systems as customizable for different level elections and direct democracy. The key is making it all integrated so that anyone from any group at anytime can be involved and empowered. What ever issue or idea "wins" the election, the Unity Network will focus on that issue as the top priority for the community. Yet we will create a priority "agenda" and if an issue isn't the top idea, it can still get done, just like the agenda items of a meeting. For more info: <http://CommunityElections.org>

Integration of CommUnity Elections

As a core system of the Unity network, the Community Elections are integrated in numerous other programs that will be explained further as you read through The Comprehensive Plan. One essential component of the vision for the Community Elections and an other way of thinking about it is that we are trying to bridge the gap between our local communities and official government voting. The Community Elections create an opportunity for bottom up grass roots elections and voting that take place in real time, every week, month and year. This will fill the gap and eventually bubble up decision that can be incorporated into top down government elections that only happen every 2-5 years.

Additionally the primary annual election for the Unity Network will coincide with Unity Day, which is the main annual event of the Unity Network. The top priority event will be announced on Unity Day and be finalized as part of the local in-person conventions. The only other key integration we will mention for now, is that the Community Elections also double as our primary fundraising system for both online fundraising, and field fundraising while doing outreach at community events and activities. In addition to voting and volunteering on projects and ideas, people can donate to support the projects and ideas they want to be worked on.

The Comprehensive Plan uses results from the Community Elections to help order the priorities within the Plan.

2. Legalize the Industrial Use of Hemp

Currently Medical Marijuana is legal in many states within the US, and smoking marijuana as a recreational substance is now legal in two states. This is great news for people who use marijuana as medicine for individuals, but the cannabis plant offers a much more functional use for our society, and that is Hemp. And even after all of this increased ability for individuals to smoke marijuana, it is still illegal to grow cannabis for the industrial manufacturing of hemp. Hemp, unlike consuming marijuana, is capable of transforming the foundation of our entire economy and is a key step in the transformation of our entire society. There is an endless laundry list of all the ways industrial hemp can be used in our society, and the big winners to keep it illegal are oil and forestry corporations, as well as others areas of society.

Integration of Industrial Use of Hemp:

Because of the huge utility of hemp, there are endless other projects and ideas that this can connect to, but for now we are going to keep this very simple and say that this projects is simply a core goal for general transformation of society.

3. Break up the Big Banks (BUBB)

Four US banks own 70% of the assets and represent 0.2% of the number of banks. These four banks wield national power that is unimaginable, both throughout the economy as well as within our own government in Washington DC with a “revolving door” of government officials who are “cozy” with banks. The process of breaking up the big banks is complicated and multi-faceted, but the general idea is to limit their size, as well as limit the amount of power and wealth they wield. This includes re-instating glass-stegal, and force the break up between hedge funds gambling in the stock market at 5% rates of return, and traditional banks that make loans at 3% returns. This is the most important step to increase loans to small business which are the primary generator of the economy.

From there we simply need to decide on what should be the maximum amount of % of assets that the bank industry should be able to wield. 5%, 10%, 15%, 20%? The banks would simply need to spin off assets to stay under the maximum size allowed within the market. By limiting the size of banks, this limits the profits to the 1%, increase jobs and choice for consumers and small businesses, as well as reduces the power for these banks to control our economy and more importantly our government that is supposed to be controlled by the people.

Integration of Break Up the Big Banks:

Breaking up the big banks is an integrated component of the transformation of our society, which is the one of the most essential elements of our collective social transformation.

This section needs lots of expansion to explain the many branches involved in diversifying, expanding, stabilizing, and subsidiary-izing of our human economy.

4. Money Is Not Free Speech Campaign

Putting people first instead of money is a simple and easy idea to understand as our current economic and political systems are so obviously putting money before people, our governance, or our planet. We all know this is not sustainable, and so do the greedy corporations and those who profit from them, so they look short term and try to squeeze as much profit as possible as fast as possible to get the greatest return on their investments. If this means buying the media, buying the government, and buying people's votes, then they will be first in line to sell and control speech to make a profit.

Lets tell the world that Money is Not Free Speech and instead Money is Greed & Corruption. We must take back our democracy for and by the people, instead of for and by Money. We must build collaborations between all of the organizations fighting for the people's rights and reducing influence from BIG money and corporate lobbyists in our government.

Our democracy is at the heart of the transformation of society, as it is rooted in 200 year old systems that are ready to evolve.

5. Integrated Sustainable Design

The general idea of Integrated Sustainable Design combines all aspects of production, use, and re-use of resources and products into the design itself. The law would simply state that no product can ever be put into production or sold without a pre-planned process for cycling the materials and waste after the product is used, and those costs must be included in the design. Every product would simply need to be designed to reduce the cost of proper cycling back into the resource stream. To create a cyclical resource stream, we will have to convert all Landfills to Resource Cycling Centers.

As soon as you end the use of landfills, you have to re-think the design of everything, and the first step is Scientific studies and analysis including, A Global Infrastructure survey,a Global Resource management survey, all of which Goes into the Life Cycle Planning of Products. In this way we can plan the entire history of a product including what it will be turned into after it is done being used, before we even make it.

6. Legalize Marijuana

Right now we have medical Marijuana except in Colorado and Washington State. There is no question that this can expand, and reduce policing costs, reduce costs to prisons, and generally save tax payer money. These days pharmaceutical drugs are a much bigger problem than a the public enjoying and smoking cannabis for medical purposes. There is no reason to continue waisting money while taking away individual freedoms.

7. Idea Fun

To help people document ideas, share them with the public, and build the resource capacity to make the best ideas reality.

Slogan: Finding & Funding the Ideas that we have been waiting for.

IdeaFun is here to help people document ideas, share them with the public, and build the resource capacity to make the best ideas reality.

“Its time to Find and Fund the Ideas we have been waiting for.”

We take a look at the world around us, and as a community it seems that we have a lot of problems in our society with a variety of global crises arriving.

Our philosophy simply states that maybe we simply haven't found the idea or ideas that will solve our collective problems. Or maybe the idea is out there but just hasn't been supported with funding and resources. So our solution is to create a support system to give any and every idea a chance at being the idea that we are all waiting for. No matter if it is just a scribble on a napkin, or an idea you've been working on for years, and gave up on, we want to submit it to the public to decide which ideas are the best.

The most popular ideas, and the ideas that could possibly solve our collective social problems and crises will be directly submitted to the Community Elections where we will be bubbling up a single idea that we can all focus on. for more information about Community Elections: <http://CommunityElections.org>

8. People's Parallel Congress (Governance Systems)

The entire People's Communications system can be created at the Glocal level, with State, and local parallel decision making bodies, and to create a system of people's communication across the World. Currently the United Nations does not support communication between people across the world, it only supports communication between Nation States, and the special interests of Nation states, not the people within those nations.

Note: the United States Congress currently has 7% approval rating, we can do better than that with our eyes closed.

The People's Parallel Congress is actually for the People, of the People, by the People, without lobbyists or direct corporate / business influence. The Peoples Parallel Congress, unlike the current official United States Congress would have...

No Lobbyists

No Corporate or Business influence or representation

No decision making or voting based on Money

No direct Elite influence or indirect influence from the 0.0000....0001%

No influence from Big Banks, Weapons Manufacturers, Wall Street, Big Oil, Big Pharma, Big Telecommunications, Big Internet etc....

The People's Parallel Congress will be Non-partisan, any party affiliation can be involved, and any actual person Can Vote for representatives including Elites, but that is the only way the richest of the rich and most powerful can be involved. Elected or Appointed Representatives must step down from 0.0000.... 0001% Elite influenced Jobs, and be pre-automatically recused from any decision that is a conflict of interest with their current or previous personal job or income, as well as other life activities including political activities, affiliations and campaigns. Additionally all communication, not just voting, must be documented and done in public NOT behind closed doors. Overall the idea of People's Parallel Governance Systems can be done at the national level of any country (either congresses or parliaments), as well as the global level, or any other level of government.

Why go to all the Trouble to create such a body that has no constitutional or governmental power? There are five simple and very important reasons to do this.

1. Communication between actual People: we believe the primary purpose of congress is communication between everyday people across the nation. Without communication between normal people it is impossible to make decisions, pass laws or bills on behalf of people. Currently congress is better at providing communication between Big money, lobbyists, and corporate interests than it is at having basic communication between normal everyday people.
2. Analysis and Data: The People's Parallel Congress will vote on every bill, law, or proposal that the official congress votes on, and overtime the record of the People's Parallel Congress can be compared to the votes of the existing official United States Congress to analyze and compare, and then educate the people about the difference of a Congress for,by and of the People, and a Congress for, by, and of the influential Rich, corporate, lobbyists.
3. Training Ground for Official Candidates: people who have experience the People's Parallel Congress, will have a huge advantage if elected into congress. They will understand the decision making systems, and have resources and contacts already on a national level.
4. Run a Slate against the existing congress: By running everyone together as an individual slate, fundraising and national outreach will be much easier. The power that comes with running a unified national campaign is MUCH better than simply running hundreds of fragmented campaigns at local levels all with very little funding.

9. People's Law Posters (Law By People)

The idea behind Law By People is to create law that is made for and by people, not politicians and lawyers. Our initial goal is to translate the Declaration of Independence and the US Constitution into everyday language that even a 8 year old can understand. We are also working on versions of the World Declaration for Interdependence. Join us in our collective effort to create law that means something to us people and stop letting our democracy slip away into archaic documents written in languages spoken by people 100's of years ago, and re-claim our democracy for our children and their children with simple commonsense laws that are easy to read, understand, and only consist of a few pages instead of 10,000's of pages that are non-sense to the common person, but are the foundation of power for lawyers and the elite.

10. Unity Flags

The Unity Flag is a conceptual combination of symbols and flags that represent the most important movements of our time. Instead of creating a new symbol to represent the unification of the diversity of movements, we thought it would make a lot more sense to simply use the existing symbols in an iconic flag. The Unity Flag does just that, by combining the most prominent symbols of the movement into a single flag. The process is fully interactive, and anyone can vote on which symbols are the most important ones of our time, and the symbols can change over time as social movements evolve. The Unity Flag only uses open cultural designs, or if it has full permissions from a trademark, this will allow the Unity Flag image itself to be free and open for anyone in the world to replicate and use.

The interactive Unity Flag is created by everyone voting on all the symbols of the People's collective movements. The symbols that get the most support then become the symbols used within the Unity Flag. Overtime as social movements change and evolve, the Unity Flag can evolve as well, but much slower than the top priority issues and ideas. What symbols do you think are the most important to represent the movements of the world? Peace Flag, Fist, Rainbow Flag, Earth Flag, Cannabis Flag, the list goes on and on and you can add your own symbols and vote . . . More info on the Unity Flag and to vote: <http://UnityFlag.net>

The goal is masses of people, not civil disobedience, which means Family Friendly and Safe! 13. The Comprehensive Plan Book

The Comprehensive Plan is an interactive methodology, actual printed step by step plan for the transformation of society, and an action adventure fictional book.

The Interactive methodology is founded on the concept of medimorphasis for the transformation of a catapilar into a butterfly, as a model for the transformation of society. Through the Unity Network and the Community Elections we interactively prioritize all the ideas into a step by step plan. The first step gets the most resources and focus but our goal is to complete the entire plan just like all the agenda items listed at a meeting. More Methodology info: www.wc.tc/methodology

Currently the top priority for the comprehensive plan is to launch the community elections to be able to start prioritizing all the ideas and evolve the plan in an interactive way that everyone can participate with. For more on the Plan: <http://wc.tc/plan>

14.Unituality

Unituality combines aspects of spirituality, religion, and science to understand the mysteries of the universe, multi-verse, and maxi-verse energies that we strive to connect to. This goes in alignment with the Unity Movement very well as 'unity' is already associated with a spiritual connotation, and we know that a successful social transformation of our world must include spiritual, religious, and scientific institutions, as well as political and economic ones, so we included them as part of the foundation of Unity. The primary theory of Unitality is that we all actually exist within a fourth demential consciousness, which projects the three detentions that we collectively experience as a linear temporal reality. Unitality uses the foundational theories of String and M Theory, Dark Energy Theories, and scientific modeling of consciousness, as well as ancient spiritual and religious texts.

15. Community Lottery Pool

The Community lottery Pool can help fundraise for community projects and the Community Elections. Although we could get lucky and eventually win with a lottery ticket, the goal is to help make sure that the millions of dollars of unclaimed prizes goes DOWN! Almost 1 billion dollars of winnings are never claimed each year!!! (about 2% of the total. We can check people's numbers for you and let you know if you won, for as little as 1% of your winnings.

16 Unity Network

The Unity Network uses principles of sustainability, grassroots activism, and collaborative decision making to help find solutions to the greatest problems of the 21st century. Our goal is to support and catalyze unity between the diversity of people and movements across the world to work towards tangible social transformation and build balance with our national world. Currently our general priorities involve developing new governance and economic system proposals based on natural ecology and sustainability that can help meet basic life necessities of all people, and a variety of other projects.

The Unity Network's methodology consists of a comprehensive unified strategy that we see as one of many possible options to solve our collective crises. We believe there are common roots to all of our problems, and that there are collective solutions no matter what the problem is. Our hope is to educate and help provide an open framework for any issue or group to collaborate together and build support. Currently many of the roots of our collective problems arise from un-representative democratic systems based on money and elite wealth having unequally representation, so many of our current project are solutions to that type of issue although we have many other seemingly unrelated issues we also address.

Interconnections:

Community Elections, to prioritize ideas and proposals that anyone can input.

Unity Flag, a visual iconic symbol of unity between the peoples movements.

Unity Day, an annual event to support building unity between all people and movements.

People's Parallel Congress to create communication and representation for normal everyday People without influence from Money, Business, Lobbyists, or elite.

Introduction to Methodology of The Comprehensive Plan of the Unity Network

When the caterpillar transforms into a butterfly, all aspects of the caterpillar, down to the DNA, transform simultaneously. The foundation of our methodology is that for our society we need a comprehensive plan that deals with every aspect of society simultaneously, not in a fragmented approach. We are not saying the linear change systems and solutions we use today won't work, we simply believe that we need more groups out in public who are pushing an option for the transformative model based on Unity between all movements.

An other way to look at the foundation of our methodology would be that "getting our own rights while others don't, is not a viable option anymore". Someone needs to stand up and say that they will not accept getting their rights without all other marginalized people also having their rights met as well. So what does this mean for action steps? The foundation of our methodology supports three primary types of interactive programs which can evolve and change to meet the current needs of society. First is democracy, and the evolution and transformation of a stagnant slow, and stale democracy, into a technologically advanced, fast paced, real-time, multi-faceted, holographic, nodular democratic trilogy, that focus not only on the rights of all individual people, but also on the rights of every persons unique ideas and perspective. Second the importance of foundational imagery as a tool for collaboration on both the physical and phycological level, as well cultural, organizational, and economic stability and preservation. Thirdly and not lastly, we center all our systems on direct interactive activities and events that the masses can take part in. This includes fast click voting created specifically for the fast paced busy lives people live these days, the 15 minute meeting, the 1 hour campaign launch, and the one day per year manifestation and decision making conventions that remind our social institutions who is actually in control.

In this document we will be going into detail on Values, Systems, Methodology, and Strategies that make up the foundation of The Comprehensive Plan and the Unity Network.

Our systems work to create maximum flexibility, maximum interactivity, and increase democratic decision making processes. What we are currently working on now can always change depending on who gets involved and what people decide to support. Yet there is something more important than just what people want to work on and support that is the cornerstone to a successful transformational movement, and that is strategy.

When collaborating as an individual in a team, it doesn't matter what people want to work on, if the people within the team don't also have similar or an agreeable strategy, it just wont work. So when we talk to people about potential collaboration the first question is not what you want to work on, but what is your strategy, and does that mesh with our strategies? If we have similar strategies, no matter what we work on, we will be much more successful.

If we don't have similar strategies, it is not impossible to collaborate, but it is much more difficult and we have specific systems within our methodology for inter-strategic collaboration on an organizational level. Individuals simply have too much emotion and personal issues to collaborate successfully within different strategic systems. Yet organizations can work together inter-strategically much easier because you can systematically structure the collaborative systems to reduce tensions created between individuals who simply don't agree based on premiss instead of goals.

An example would be a group of people who can't agree on raising money or not. There should be NO need to ever argue about weather or not to raise money. It is a strategic decision and people should easily have the option to join a group or network that meets the strategic methodologies they agree with regardless of what goals they want to help achieve. This is just one of 10's of strategic methods that are important to consider, what types of strategies do you focus on?

An example of a foundational strategy for the Unity Network, is that everything we do is public, absolutely everything. We are not willing to partake in secret or excessively private conversations as part of our network. Of course people can have an alias and hide their personal identity when actively participating, but what they say is public information. Yet we are willing to work and collaborate with organizations that do actively utilize secrecy as a primary method of enacting change.

LIFE Support:

L.I.F.E. Support is the focus of the Community LIFE Network, and the center of the Unity Network. The goal is to make a network linking individual lives and supporting community leaders to spend more time helping the community and less time worrying about resources, life necessities, money etc...

Jay is the founder of the Community LIFE Network, and has dedicated his life to helping others and serving humanity. The question is what we can do as a community to support him being more successful in his work, and how can we help other community leaders in a time when we need more help as a human society than ever.

You don't have to be a community leader or the leader of an organization to join L.I.F.E. Support. Everyone has contacts, everyone has a network that can support each other. Why go it alone when you can join the team. Do you want to join the L.I.F.E. Support team and start helping other community leaders and get help with your life too. Contact us though the above contact link :) Hopefully some day we will have thousands of people and leaders working together to support each others lives to better find solutions to solve the problems facing our civilization.

Evolved Democracy:

Our methodology is to take democracy to an other level. Overall the current democratic systems in operation in much of the world, are 200 years old, and have not evolved with the global interconnected technological advancements and the quick pace of how our society now operates. This is easy to change.

Equality between all People!

For us basic Democracy is that Every person has equal vote. It should not matter where they are, or where they come from (even extra terrestrial), if they are here and we are communicating on any type of basic decision, their vote counts equal to all others. This is a huge and basic concept, but is not put into practice hardly anywhere in our society. There are NO barriers to entry to get your vote, it is automatic, and anyone can participate from anywhere in the world.

Democratic Trilogy:

The Democratic Trilogy is the term we use to describe the evolution of old democracy, which is primarily “representative” or classes, organizations, and money, depending on where you are on the planet. We believe that representative democracy as it is today, is the best form of democracy that has ever been created for government decision making, and our goal is to expand on it, not replace it. Therefore our goal is to balance representative democracy with Participatory Democracy and Direct Democracy. The democratic trilogy being a harmony of all three; Representative, Participatory, and Direct Democracy. This simply means that every person has the opportunity to collaboratively make decisions with their community in real time, both in-person at community meetings and general gatherings, as well as online over conference calls. Also every person has the ability to vote online in real-time, directly on every single proposal, topic, and decision that all elected, appointed and representative government official do. Minimally these will be advisory votes, but the goal is that decisions made by representatives, participants in the community, and through online direct voting will all be congruent. That is the most powerful decision of all, one that is the same no matter what the process of decision making is.

Ideaocracy:

Yet we go one step beyond the Democratic Trilogy which guarantees one person one vote, and creates equality between every person across the world. Ideaocracy creates guaranteed equality between all ideas. How can our democracy evolve if ideas from certain types of people or certain groups are marginalized with no biases, or simply because there is no money backing those ideas at the time of their creation. By creating equality of ideas, regardless of who creates the idea or when the idea was created, it opens up a democratic consideration of each and every idea equal to all others. This is extremely important in a world where you have an equal vote, but if you aren't already an "insider" within the power structures of the world, you have no say and your ideas are at the bottom of the latter. Democracy will never work when some peoples ideas, and worse off some ethnicity or stereotype of peoples ideas are not considered because of who they are and what class they come from. Ideaocracy ensures that All ideas are at least considered on the basis that all ideas are equal and must be evaluated without bias or conflict of interest.

Generational Democracy

With Ideaocracy, you can easily take true democracy one GIANT step further with the concept of General Democracy, Direct Democracy over time, or Historical past future Present generational direct democracy. This is possible because if you create equality between ALL ideas, it doesn't matter what time period the idea came from, or applies to, the idea MUST be considered equal to ALL other ideas in the present un-biased consideration for decision making.

All humans should be able to vote regardless weather the are alive, have died, or have not been born yet. Why should we simply disregard someones point of view, simply on the biases that they died, or that they will be born next year and are not alive today. A true civilization must account for all points of view, and not disregard a life, the day that person dies.

Note: to give rights and conscious understanding of future generations is NOT the same as giving rights to the "un-born" fetus. The issue of Pro-Life vs. Pro-Choice is a issue between the un-born fetus, and the already alive mother, and WHO has the ultimate authority over the decision and control for the women's body. The Pro-choice stand is that the individual woman always has the ultimate power and say because they are already alive and there is no guarantee that the fetus will survive at that point. The Pro-life stand is that the government has the power and say, and that the government can force individual women to make choices that may not be in there best interest for the existing women, regardless of weather the fetus lives or dies through the natural pregnancy. Pro-choice does not say that the fetus does not have rights, it is simply saying that the existing adult women's rights are more important than the rights of the fetus, because the fetus has a chance of dyeing naturally regardless of an abortion, and the adult mother is already alive. Generational democracy on the other hand is focused on actual future living people who will be born and grow up to live regular lives, and the decisions those people would make for the future of humanity. Any person who is capable of communicating can be involved in generational democracy, and so we can ask all people their position on the pro-choice, pro-life issue, in a neutral and unbiased way, and we will, but it is impossible for us to ask a fetus a question, as the fetus itself is not capable of basic communication and decision making like a actually born human who can understand basic communication. Therefore generational democracy can NOT take into account what the possible decision of a individual fetus would be, because it is simply impossible for the fetus to communicate with us at this point in time. Maybe one day we will figure out a way to communicate with un-born fetuses, and obviously in the "third trimester", communication already starts to be a possibility, but for early fetuses, for now we have to rely on actual communication to make decisions on the basis of generational democracy. Again generational democracy sees the pro-choice, pro-life issue as a single issue within hundreds/thousands of issues and ideas that all deserve equal consideration.

Our goal would be detailed questionnaires and surveys from as many living people as possible of all past and future categories of decisions. This will start with a simple questionnaire of the 10-20 most important questions and proposals that ALL humans alive today should be asked, to create a massive database of consciousness that all people and decision makers can refer to for all future decisions ever to be made. Additionally for those people who are willing to answer a more in-depth questionnaire over time, we will issue a new set of questions every year, and overtime expect people to document their answers to as many as 100 or even 1000+ questions over the course of their lifetime. These answers can and hopefully will form the foundation of direct decision making for generations to come.

For all people who have already died or have not been born, perspectives and determinations would be made on how they would vote to the best of our ability with the information available. To do this the best strategic ability to perceive a distinct independent point of view with an unbiased and justifiable probability of understood determination will be used. In other words this can be done using the scientific method. And although it can't be perfect, as can be done with living people, you can easily get a close approximation of the decision making trajectory that people would have voted if given the change when they were alive.

Over all human time (2.5 million years) there have been about 100 billion homo sapiens and other people within the Homo genus. These people, including current living people, will be the focus of creating a data source for decision making for the democratic trajectory of humanity.

Additionally we must also consider future unborn people as it is easily possible to extrapolate their interests within a limited scope of decisions. Current births average about 100 million per year which is about 1 billion every 10 years and 10 billion every one hundreds years. With an expected population reduction we can hypothesize that over a 5000 year period the number of people born could be about 400-700 billion people.

If you also consider other very intelligent conscious creatures on this planet, with the capability of complete inter-species communication and perceived perspectives it is easy to extrapolate an addition 100-300 billion non-homo-genius people that could also be considered in decision making.

Therefore the most essential foundational decisions for our planet and the future relationship with humanity, it is essential for us to consider a total direct democratic decision making matrix of about 1 trillion people of which only about 10-20 billion may be alive at any one time.

If you double the amount of time for the homo genius, that would be 5 million years of people and we could estimate that there would be as many as 100 trillion to 1 quadrillion votes.

The best way to explain this democratic methodology would be the probability of making the correct decisions with the point of view of a few hundred people with the control and power who are alive today, or using the vast knowledge and perspective of all 1 trillion people who have and will exist eventually. Why should a few hundred, or even a few 10,000s of people alive today, determine the future of all of us, especially if it is not in the best interest of the past or the future of humanity?

Cultural Protection & Rights

One of the most important things is Cultural rights and their relationship to other forms of rights.

Individual rights are more important, but cultural heritage and preservation of Indigenous cultures is essential for the future of humanity.

It is very important to define culture to decide which cultures are important enough to spend resources to save, and which are not important enough for society as a whole to take action on.

One way of defining cultures to preserve is as unchanging or very very slowly changing cultures. These types of cultures change very slowly on the same processes that languages change and evolve. It usually takes multiple generations.

To expand on this definition we use three components to define a inc hanging culture.

- 1) Language
- 2) Calendar
- 3) Mannerisms

Therefore it is very important to preserve the cultural rituals that teach mannerisms, language, and use the cultural calendar.

Mannerisms can include but not limited to a certain way of walking, accents, the types and processes for exchanging resources, cooking, and the way of going about your day.

A calendar, just like a language, can be translated from a local cultural calendar to a common societal calendar that is easily synchronized with the Gregorian calendar or whatever calendar is being used at any other local cultural jurisdiction.

No person, group of people, or culture should ever be forced to use someone else's calendar, language, or mannerisms.

Other forms of essential RIGHTS to support:

- Individual Rights
- Women's Rights
- Spiritual Rights
- Cultural Rights
- Organizational Rights
- Religious rights
- Ecosystem Rights

Multi Organizational Entities (MOE's) & Natural Based Systems

Our organizational methodology consists of being able to interact with all aspects of society simultaneously. This is essential since our goal is the complete transformation of society on all levels, and therefore there can be no area of society that we can't interact with. Because our laws and current societal legal structures create fragmentation based on the type of legal entity that you choose, we therefore must have multiple organizational entities to be able to legally interact with different aspects of society. We call this a multi-organizational-entity, or MOE.

In addition to the multiple organizations, we also use a organismic system of organizing where we utilize natural and sustainability patterns and processes to utilize nature as a model for organizing.

Summary of Natural organismic organizing

- Taurus- looking at it in a completed context is complicated, but the building blocks are simple, so don't focus on the whole, it is not a means, but a process of smaller steps.
- If you take nothing else, simply understand that it's not about what the action that needs to be taken or the decision that will/has been made, but about where it fits into the larger picture to organize it within the organism.
- Main Reason for its creation is that some of the most difficult problems in organizing our communities are miss communication, lack of communication, not having representation or miss representations, and of course confusion in decision making, who should make a decision, not having agreement and actions moving forward out of sequence.
- We need to use All tools available, to meet the needs of our current evolution
- Organic Spiraling Evolution- our consciousness spirals over time, and the organism model also spirals to match the conscious evolution of our society.
- The foundation that holds all the different parts, organs, or organization of the organism together is that they all need to Speak the Same Language. Same vocabulary or translatable.
- An existing, living, breathing model, which is being created, does not currently exist. There is no real model that can be observed in reality, but it will slowly come together and when it is glowing and flowing we will know.

3 Parts to Organismic organizing

- Communications
 - True Communication is only possible in small groups of 2-3 people, maximum 6.
 - Real Consensus cannot be reached with a group of more than 15-20 people unless buddies are used for improving communication.
- Representations
 - Buddy Teams to communicate in small groups of 2-3 people and then send representation for communication throughout the organism.

- Different “organ”-izations of the organism can have representation into the organism as a whole.
- The entire population of the world can be represented in small groups of 2-3 people with true communication in as few as 32 meeting groups.
- Actions
 - Decisions are only actions, no decision has been made until action has been taken.
 - Actions are made by individuals or small groups of 2-6 people

Implementation

- Start with Communications, find agreement within the organism, define simple vocabulary and values.
- Let go of the dividing lines between organizations and let it blur a little.
 - Holographic imagery & visualization, many possibilities in one location.
 - Can have multiple networks in same location.
- Each different strategy can be looked at like a different organ of the whole.
 - Ex. Each hub may organize differently. One may be by consensus, and other majority, and still an other could have a director, and still all can fit together seamlessly.
- This info sheet is not a definitive model, and these ideas will evolve and be clearer over time.

OPEN SYSTEMS & Transparency:

Our network functions as an open system, there is no barrier to involvement or interaction, only different levels. Although our legal entities will be restricted on their function to align with our strategy and purpose, our networks are open to all systems of strategy and purpose to create diversity. As a whole, the MOEs protocol will be strict transparent & public communication on every level, with guidelines to record all conversations, and all programs and projects will be based on the law. Anything which is deemed to be secret, must be agreed upon so in public, and given a strict time limit, with the maximum time limit of the lifetime of everyone involved, which cannot include the unborn.

Nodular Structural Organization:

The primary objective of our structural methodology is nodular self organizing, and efficient duplication of backup responsibilities. Although we intend to have leadership development systems, we are perfectly fine having “multiple heads”, and as a nodular system, any node anywhere in the world can take up leadership responsibilities when interested, and institute a plan for top level implementation. We support rotating leadership, and automatic take over of leadership powers from any node within the entire network. All nodes have the goal of having the resources and assets to take on the responsibilities and duties of the whole network.

World View of various Global Crises

Our world view is based on the foundation that global technological advancement and accompanied population growth has spun off a plethora of global crises never before seen or dealt with by any generation before us, and the current systemic structure of our society is not currently capable of addressing these crises and they are continuing to get worse. Without naming the laundry list of global and regional crises, we will just name 5 of the top issues that we and future generations are all facing.

5 of the many global crises we are facing:

- Economic Destabilization from technological unemployment and wealth stratification.
- Climate Destabilization from Green House Gas emissions and other particulate pollution.
- Destruction and land pollution of 70%+ of the ecological land ecosystems and 30% of the ocean ecosystems, with mass species die-offs in the range of 10,000 extinct species per year.
- Dysfunctional Governments that function too slow for the needs of 21st century people.
- Basic access to food, water, health care, education, incomes/jobs, and other life necessities.

Multi-Comprehensive, Do all of the above approach:

The primary paradigm of our society is to focus on one single issue at a time, and simply believe that other people are dealing with the other problems. Additionally we seem to believe that our work and solutions will fit and be at least reasonably compatible with the solutions and implementation other people are developing for other problems, and that eventually even if it doesn't fit at first, it will work out. Although the Unity Network and our methodology doesn't disagree with this outlook of our social paradigm, we simply believe that even if there is a 5% chance that this belief structure is actually WRONG, we MUST have an alternative option to replace it.

The foundation of the methodology for the Unity Network is that if we only solve one single issue, it could very well make the other crises worse, or cause other unforeseen crises within areas that aren't even current problems. Simply stated, if we are only looking at one issue, there is no guarantee when we solve it that our solution won't cause other problems. Therefore our methodology consists of the theory of a comprehensive unified strategy and single interconnected series of solutions, as opposed to fragmented single solutions for single problems. We see this theory as just one of many possible options to solve our collective crises, but it is a viable option and should be included in all discussion about how we solve any individual crises.

Even if there is a small probability that we can't solve any single crisis without solving all of them simultaneously, we must consider this comprehensive process and planning as a viable solution. Instead of seeing the problems of the world as separate distinct unconnected issues, we see that there are common roots to all of our problems, and therefore we must consider creating collective solutions no matter what the problem is.

This is not done by any single organization or even a single network, and our intention is to unite with other organizations and networks to interconnect existing projects and solutions being implemented to make sure they all fit together. Our hope is to educate and help provide an open framework for any issue or group to collaborate together and build support. Currently we see that many of the roots of our collective problems arise from un-representative democratic systems based on money and elite wealth having unequal power, so many of our current projects are solutions to that type of issue. Of course we have many other seemingly unrelated issues and projects we also address and our focus can change at any time based on your and other peoples involvement and votes.

Monetary & Power Structures of Society reside with the PEOPLE!

One of the key roots of our global crises that we see, is that our local and globalized society has out grown its decision making processes and is no longer capable of making difficult and essential decisions on behalf of the people. Our outdated government systems of democracy, although they are the most evolved in history, still are not meeting the needs of today's populations anymore, and many government bodies are gridlocked with disproportional representation for big money, lobbyists, corporate and national special interests. The top 85 wealthiest people of the world, hold half of the entire wealth of the planet and the 1%ers own 65 times the bottom half of the world population. Did those 85 people do 1/2 of the work of the world to create all that wealth? Did the 1% do 65 times the work of the bottom half to deserve 65 times the wealth? No, not even close, in fact they have done less productive work because they simply invest old money and fund other people to do the actual work for them, the system is flawed and is rigged for the richest of the rich, because work is undervalued and money is WAY overvalued and is pumped upstream. Year after year this money and wealth has been taken from the people, and the only reason that they continue to control the majority of humanity's wealth and the power that comes along with it, is because we the people of the world continue to allow them to do so. FACT: At anytime we can collectively decide to take it back, as they have no right to it under the natural laws of our planet, because everyone has a right to meet their basic life necessities. Again we believe that the power of the world's political structures is inherently with the people, and no law, government, family or individual can ever change that. The only reason why the 1%ers, elite, corporations, royalty, and other powerful individuals currently have the power of the world, is because the people have chosen to continue to allow these people to wield their power. At anytime the people can choose to take that away, but only if we as the people of the world actively choose to take the power back. And as a people, we can choose to give our power to any political or governance structures that we choose. We as individuals must take responsibility for the historical issues of our society, and the future, on behalf of all future generations.

Community Equity and Societal Equity:

Community Equity - Give your Equity to the Community as a Whole but you're still part of the community, so if the community creates something of value, you automatically will have equity in it for the long run, but it could take decades.

The concept of Community Equity for our local and regional communities, and societal equity, for the evolution of our entire society, is the new concept for the foundation of our economic distribution of wealth and long term advancement.

Why Societal Equity?:

We see the current global economic stagnation and recession is much more complex than people talk about. Instead of it being a simple process of growth vs contraction, we actually believe that the introduction of the computer just 50 years ago, and the cybernation and mechanization of our production supply of the globe, has actually changed and evolved the entire global economy, and it no longer functions as it used to. The old economic model which existed just fine before computers and cybernation came around, was that people worked hard in factories and on production lines, and got a high and reasonable income to spend money and keep the economy going. Everyone had a good income, and the corporations did just fine, and the economy worked for everyone. Yet within 50 years of the introduction of the computer, almost every production system has seen a 50%+ reduction in workers, and employees now make less when doing the work that is left. This wouldn't be a problem except for where the control and money is going. You would think that if we have computers and machines do everything, naturally people would get paid more to do less work since there is less work to go around. But that is not what is happening, instead workers are getting paid less, and there is less work to be done, so they work less hours, and 100% of all the increase in production and cost effectiveness of the mechanized production systems is going to the 1%. Did the 1% do all the work to invent and create the cybernated systems that are reducing high quality jobs in the work force? NO they didn't, yet they are reaping 100% of the rewards. Income is no longer being distributed sufficiently though work with our current economy and we must find new ways to distribute income. One option is societal equity.

Instead of working for 30 years and paying rent for 30 years, and getting nothing for it, with societal equity you actually get equity for your contributions to society. In our current system, you can work hard for a company for 30 years, and help make this company millions of dollars in value, and then use the money you work for to pay rent for 30 years, and pay off a million dollar mortgage for the owner of the house that you pay rent to, but you yourself can end up with no equity or assets from your hard work. In a single month the company that you have worked so hard for the last 30 years, can simply lay you off and give your job to a computer for higher profits, and because you can no longer pay rent, after 30 years of paying rent on-time, your landlord can kick you out and next thing you know your homeless with absolutely nothing, and the landlord and the owners of the company you worked for walk away with millions in assets that you helped create. The fact that our current economy even lets this happen should be criminal, and is exactly the foundational reason why the 1%ers and corporations are having record profits and earnings, when everyone else's incomes are going down, or can't find a job at all. When you can simply layoff humans and families who used to benefit from the hard work of their ancestors, and then give the work to computers, and take all the rewards for your 1% family, and take all of the future income and assets forever, there is a HUGE problem.

One simple solution to this problem that is just going to get worse, is societal equity. Everyone who contributes in any way to our societal economy deserves and receives direct equity in the form of assets in the companies and the society itself based on their contribution level. Unlike social security, the assets you gain in equity are yours and not controlled by the government. You can save them, and when your able to legally divest, like any typical employee assets, you can cash out at anytime, or better yet, hold on to them to increase your long term equity for you and your family in the growth of the human society.

What is so cool is that this same principle can be applied to any business, organization, or network, in the form of community equity. Our goal is simply to ensure that anyone who contributes to our network, will receive equity if we ever as a network built strong assets, we have an obligation to share this value with all of those who have contributed, not just those who happen to have gotten it started, or were the original funders/investors.

Societal Interactivity

Our goal is to have our systems of interactivity, dialogue and decision making to be synchronized with the current societal paradigm of the times to allow for the Maximum number of people to be involved. Primarily this means we account for the busy nature of people with their personal lives and jobs, and to utilize technology and the internet for direct decision making. We are committed to perfecting fast click voting, the 5 minute meeting, and the 1 hour campaign launch.

Although the primary leadership meetings will be organized and facilitated as a normal meeting with topics and agenda items, and at times last an hour or two, our primary meeting structure for long meetings that can last for hours, is to utilize round table games.

Round Table Games

Our society loves games, and everyone loves to play games, both online and in person. Therefore we are committed to allow the discussions and general direction of our network to be organized in community round table games in combination with general meeting formats. We are willing to play any round table game as the focus of our community game meetings, but we are committed to playing the games that are the most popular in our communities. Currently the most popular round table games are card games, and the most popular card game is Poker. So currently our primary focus for community game meetings are Community Round Table Poker Sessions. We have detailed standing rules on how these sessions are run to balance the card game with the community meeting.

Full Text:

Transformative and non-violent foundation:

We are non-violent and transformative even in communication and thought. Transformative action, transformative networking, transformative vocabulary bring the transformation of society we are looking for. (link)

Function primarily on the Globally level, empowered locally

We function on the Global decision making level, across all continents, and eventually in any language, with english not being the primary language, although it will be the starting point language. Any individual across the world (startin with english), who has a smart phone and access to free voice communications can directly participate, everyone else can indirectly participate. The global entity(s) are empowered locally. Global Decision-Making & Equal power of individuals, Separation of Powers and Branches of Society, Protection of Individual & Local Autonomy/Rights. (links): <http://sync.in/GlobalEmpowermentStructure>

Diversity Multi-Faceted Multi entity- Ramo-Heeo-Jelo MOE

Our entity is a Multi Organizational Entity (MOE) including both political and non political activities, and non-monetary systems of decision making. Primary components of our entity are the interrelated MOEs, non-profits, businesses, and political committees. Through our systems of diversified organizations and entities, all stakeholders gain partial ownership in the system however they interact including consumers, volunteers, workers, investors, and more. (link)

Foundation of Individual basic life necessities, for all communication, plannign and coordination. (L.I.F.E.)

Each goal, project, accomplishment and achviement starts with individuals who support the work of the whole. Our foundation is that each and every individual is a unique and essencial link in our chain, and a challenging project for us all to support. The first step to all our planning, communications and coordination is to integrate our Basic Life Necessities check in's to easily understand the actionable items for us to prioritize to help each other. Each individual collaborating within our ranks is entitled to Health and wellness and have their own basic life needs met, including their personal wellness goals. We can never pressure anyone to work +volunteer more than 40 hours a week and we actively encourage people to not to work +volunteer more than 60 hours per week.

Basic LIFE Necessites Matrix:

- Resources: Food & Water; Resources/Money/Job
- Security: Home & Shelter; Relations/Family/Friends
- Care: Health care & Wellness; Education/Learning
- Interaction: Transportation; Communications / Expression

Open System, Transparent & Public Communication, Network Cores Matrix diversifing organizing systems.

We function as an open system, there is no barrier to involvement or interaction, only different levels. Although our legal entities will be restricted on their function to align with our strategy and purpose, our networks are open to all systems of strategy and pourpose to create diversity. As a whole, the MOEs protocol will be strict transparent & public communication on every level, with guideline to record all conversations, and all programs and projects will be based on the law. Anything which is deemed to be secret, must be agreed upon so in public, and given a strict timelimit, whith the maximum time limit of the lifetime of everyone involved, which canot include the unborn. Our network matrix can be evolved as new types of systems are understood:

Network Cores Matrix:

- Strict Strategy to No Strategy
- Money to no money
- Non political to political
- Outside system to inside
- Non violence to violence
- Personal vs group
- Fast and slow decisions
- Template towards quick action

- Transparent vs. Secret

Monetary Based - Current Society Focus, More Money Making Moe (MMMoe)

The primary economy of today is money-consumer based. Until that changes, our primary interaction with people/public is Money based, and we ask for donations and ask people to buy our products and services. Our primary work ethic is to pay our workers for the most important work of humanity, with the goal of paying a living wage when the budgets are feasible. But until we have substantial budgets, we are completely ok paying workers minimum wage as much of our work was/is still done by volunteers. We want to fundraise LOTS of money professionally with donors and foundations. We then Distribute funds to a variety of projects and organizations, not just Fundraising for ourselves. A subset of our organizations and projects is the More Money Making Moe (MMMoe). The only priority of this subset of projects is to make money as fast and as much as possible without doing anything illegal. We have a right to play the money game at the same level as the largest corporations, except when we "profit", instead of the profit going to the old system of individuals hoarding money and power, our not-for-profit system cleans the money through a distributive chain to empower masses and support the transformation of society. We will not shy away from controversial markets, but instead transform them. As a global organization, our enemy is not outsourcing jobs to other countries, but the outsourcing of jobs to robots, machines, and cybernated systems. We have no problem using small amounts of money to pay workers in third world countries to work long hours for the betterment of the global InterMovement. The foundation of our movement may not be within first world countries at all. We use all the legal resources of the world to meet our substantial goals, and play the money game fair and square, just as the multi-national corporations do. The only difference is that we create a collective cooperative system which everyone collectively can control and disintegrate if they wanted to.

Through our systems of diversified organizations and entities, all stakeholders gain partial ownership in the system itself, however they interact, including consumers, volunteers, workers, investors, and more. (link)

Unified & Integrated Comprehensive planning systems including a unified decision making system for the entire MOE.

The entire MOE functions with a single unified system of decision making, reporting, budgets etc... Our overall strategy is to create and follow an integrated Comprehensive Plan for the Transformation of society and the evolution of Humanity. This plan includes chaos, diversity, variations, experimentation, innovation, and new social movements that we can't yet define.

Social Integration; Quick action; Pre Set template campaigns for fast paced society, and most access possible using online games.

We must target today's existing society with all our campaigns and projects. Our current society is fast paced, busy, disconnected, fragmented, and not prone to stay focused. Our primary organizing strategies to target these attributes is the 5-15 minute planning meetings, the 1 hour campaign launches, and for long strategic communications and planning, use the online poker room, to keep people participating more often and longer. Poker is the largest online community and society that sits in a circle for massive amounts of time.

Stick to only doing legal activities, ok with gray areay activities that are borderline legal, or legal locally, but questionable national/globally.

Our network focuses strickly on legal activities, but we are ok with the gray area right up and a little past the line of legality. The primary places where this comes up now, is with medical marijuana, and paying workers globally. We are ok with both of these actions as long as they follow the local laws to keep everything legal, or as legal as possible, with a plan of getting even more legal as time goes on. All different levels and layers of legality automaticlly create new legal entities. Any group or project that is dealing with a different set of legal issues must have its own legal entity structure that prevents those issues getting tied into the core non-profit legal structure of the network itself. The core legal entities should go above and beyond to NOT interact with any borderline legal inittives.

Notes/Disscussion:

Mel feedback:

Makes sense to paying living wages where appropriate.

Whatever the budgets can aford. If someone is willing to work pro-bono it is fine.

Everything we invest in will build futher income and funds for the programs.

Starting at minimum wage is fine. But living wage makes sence.

Paying workers globally could be too broad. Maybe focus more locally.

Approved Project Strategic Matrix (APSM):

The APSM defines the strategic limits of all projects sponsored by the MOE and also the MOE's Internal Organizational Strategic Values.

Contriversial Spectrums:

In-between the two IXI's indicate the levels of the spectrum that is Approved for sponsored projects

The IOI represents the location on the Spectrum the MOEs Internal Strategic organizational values standard.

Violence vs. Non violence

- Sponsonorship [5-10] MOE [10+]
- 1 = Fully violent acts (war) 2 3 4 IXI 5 6 7 8 9= Non-Violence 10 =Transformative Actions IOI IXI
- We are ok with any idea or project that involves Legal Violence
- In other words court cases including death penalties and anti-trust dismantlement of corporations.
- We can not directly sponsor any idea or project that could have any physical violence.

Secret vs. Transparent

- Sponsorship [4-10] MOE [7+]
- 1= Completely Secret 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10= Everything Transparent and Public
- We can not sponsor any idea or project that is interconnected to any level of the secret elite or long term secret clubs. It is ok if people relinquish involvement for the future, and if the secrets are temporary for starting a business.

Illegal vs. Legal

- Sponsorship [5-10] MOE [5+]
- 1= Illegal Activities 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9 10 = Completely Legal Everywhere
- We will allow some minor civil disobedience to be related to some programs and ideas we sponsor
- Primarilyly we draw the line at sponsoring nothing that is illegal, but we are ok with the gray area of legality as long as it leans towards the law being on our side. This includes the following scenarios: medical marijuana, hiring people globally at wages less than the local minimum wage.

Non-Contrivsial Specturms:

- No Money to Only Money Based
- Sponsorship [1-10] MOE [8.5]
- Any idea no matter what level of money. If it is no money at all, then it doesn't go to the HR board because there can't technically be staff unless the proposal/idea gets donations that are then coordinated by a monetary component of the MOE
- Non political to only political
- Sponsorship [1-10] MOE [3]
- Any non-political or fully political and anything in-between
- Outside system to inside
- Sponsorship [1-10] MOE [5]

- Collaboration & Interdependence: Working with our neighbors and the environment to enhance all of our lives; knowing we are all connected.
- Spectrums & Cycles- Nothing is just black and white; knowing all options and how they fit together, make sure you have all your tools accessible, but don't get caught up into any one tool.

- Change yourself to change the world.

- Freedom: The meaning of life is that there is no meaning at all, yet we search for power and understanding of how the universe works and our place in it. We finely understand, and attain absolute freedom to control the universe and define what choice is, and like an instant flash, the universe evolves to become ever more complex to restore balance of individual power. Freedom is balance of power. Separation of powers is the institutional framework to implement freedom.

Important Values:

- Golden Rule- do unto others, what you would want done to yourself.
- Only get what you need
- Stay Positive -As long as no one prevents me from doing what I need in the present moment, then I have no intention of actively preventing anyone else from doing what they do. Keep everything positive as much as possible, raise the vibration, see the light in everything.
- Plant Rights- create balance in protecting plants including trees and weed as plants are the foundation of the living ecosystem. (Human & animal rights are a given)
- Struggle leads to effortlessness- accept and go beyond conflict to evolve

- Life is balance of the elements: Fire, Air, Water, and Earth; Plasma, Gas, Liquid, Solid; Soul, Breath, Blood, and Body; Connect
- Being True to one's word and agreements- Do what you say, and say what you do, words are Magic.
- Non-Special Interest: Understanding that your personal interests can actually do harm to the world if you are unwilling to give them up sometimes for the greater good. Everything is but a subset of something bigger- Synchronization.
- Waste Prevention: A landfill is a Recycling and composting center waiting to be organized; Refrain, Refuse, Reduce, Reuse, then Recycle; and Compost

Other Values:

- Humility and Humbleness: Leave the judging to the judges, reverence, respect, and love towards all others.

World Declaration of Interdependence Values

We the undersigned, support the following values laid out in the World Declaration for Interdependence (WDI). <http://www.LawByPeople.com/WDI>

Interdependence

Interdependence of all the people of the world, all national governments, all organizational entities, all cultures, and all ecosystems and natural resource coalitions.

Individual Rights

Rights to all people of the world to directly participate in global decision making and directly bypass their national governments and directly work with people within all countries of the world.

Organizational Rights

Rights to organizational entities, businesses and corporations to participate in global decision making.

Cultural Rights

Rights for all cultures to represent themselves globally and participate in global decision making.

Ecosystem Rights

Rights to natural resource coalitions that represent the most unbiased and scientific view point of the natural resources and biological ecosystems of our planet.

Stable & Secure Economy

Re-create the global economy based on local stability and security and based on wellness and health for organizations and people alike, and make growth and profit secondary.

Support Thriving Ecosystems

Evolve and transform the human economy to function as a subsidiary of the natural economy and become balanced and in harmony with the ecosystems of the earth.

Organizational Safety Nets

Unprecedented problems of global concern call for a fundamental transformation of our production processes and industries. This discussion cannot even be started until we establish a comprehensive safety net for all organizational entities and people affected by unforeseen reductions in natural resource allocation; we must support these industries and organizational entities to be re-vitalized into new industries that are in balance and harmony to keep our economies stable and people employed.

Peace through Education

Support the people of the world to take education into their own hands, only people working interdependently can take this monumental task of educating the world population to see it become a reality.

Cultural Diversity

Create a safety net for cultural security with documentation, translation, and other cultural necessities to increase education and expand cultural diversity and continuity especially with the dying languages.

Utilization of Technology for Global Decision-Making

Technology now allows us all to directly communicate and make decision between people representing their local communities, cultures and business. Only through direct representation can many of the worlds problems be solved because national governments have biased interests, and many UN countries do not directly represent the majority of their people. We see ensuring direct representation of all the people of the world as the only viable option to secure our fate and reach the highest goals of humanity. National governments do not have the right to directly negotiate with people in other countries, only the people within a country have the right to directly negotiate with people of other countries.

Using Natural Boundaries to Assist Communication

In addition to national boundaries, using natural unbiased boundaries will assist communication between people from local communities across the world.

We agree with the fundamental message of global rights for all citizens with interdependent rights with all national governments, organizations and business entities. And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of divine providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor.

An Argument for The Comprehensive Plan

We all know we have lots of problems in the world, and I could talk about any one of them here, and convince you to go along with my argument. But if we succeeded, would that really solve the problem when there are 50 other problems and crisis going on simultaneously? Can we really solve the problem of homelessness without also stabilizing our economy? Can we create equality for women in the workplace without also improving women's health care and access to prenatal and maternal services?

To a certain extent YES, you can make major progress on individual issues, which actually helps other issues improve by association. But I would also argue that these individual successes that we have seen over the last 50-100 years have been recently plagued with concerning set backs. Here's a little Summary (to post)

Women still don't receive equal pay and access to abortions have decreased.

Civil liberties have eroded and in many places we are fighting for the right of our vote for minorities

Our society is more militarized than ever and conflicts in the world with non stop war on terror could lead us into world war three.

Sustainability of the earth and climate change is teetering on disaster for our and future generations.

The list goes on and on....

So Even though we have had major breakthroughs in all of these areas of need in our society, we still continue to slip back into the original problems and in some instances are facing even more catastrophic challenges in the future than we faced in the past. It is great that the Silent spring helped clean up our "burning" rivers and stop the killing of millions of birds, but now we face the obliteration of most of 70% of the last 3% of pristine forests left on this earth, polluted oceans and fish populations being desimated and disappearing fishing cities, and worse of all the destabilization of the global climate with the potential of out of control global warming. Any of these crises could create a catastrophic domino effect on our economies that results in the death of billions of people.

What is the alternative to the same activist and political systems that have been used and acted upon over the last 50-100 years? There is no good term, but I can begin to describe it as Some type of InterMovement that is based on a multi-strategic, multi-cause, multi-entity, multi-faceted framework where the masses can feel included. For those of you who push away from the multiple, and both, holographic, multi-dimensional concepts of interdisciplinary action, another way of looking at the same puzzle is UNITY. Unity of our fragmented society is nothing less than creating a multi-dimensional holographic and interdisciplinary singularity that can grow and catalyze the future of Humanity's Evolution.

I am not talking about the "lets save the world and have a utopian global peace" starting next week mentality. I'm talking about a step by step, achievable and targeted and strategic process that must be founded in science, recordable data driven benchmarks, that track progress in a multitude of program and transformation implementation areas. Each crisis, each cause, each spoke of the unified intermovement must have specific attainable goals in a step by step plan that is nothing less than comprehensive. And there is no alternative than hard work to make that happen and follow it through.

There are going to be problems, issues between people groups, and strategy, but we have to find and create common ground. Which brings us to the final pillar of the foundation to creating an attainable comprehensive plan that revolves around a unified inter-movement. That is forgiveness. Progressives must forgive neo-cons. ? must forgive ?. Palestinians must forgive Israelis. Muslims must forgive Christians. This is crucial to moving forward and creating unity.

In a Sentence:

The Unity Network is collaborating to unite the people and movements of the world towards social transformation.

Short Summary About the Unity Network:

The Unity Network uses principles of sustainability, grassroots activism, and collaborative decision making to help find solutions to the greatest problems of the 21st century. Our goal is to support and catalyze unity between the diversity of people and movements across the world to work towards tangible solutions and social transformation to build balance with ourselves and the natural world. Currently our general priorities involve developing new governance and economic system proposals, based on natural ecology and sustainability, that can help meet basic life necessities of all people, as well as a variety of other social conscious projects.

Our world view is based on the foundation that global technological advancement and accompanied population growth has spun off a plethora of global crises never before seen or dealt with by any generation before us, and the current systemic structure of our society is not currently capable of addressing these crises and they are continuing to get worse. Without naming the laundry list of global and regional crises, we will just name 5 of the top issues that we and future generations are all facing.

5 of the many global crises we are facing:

- Economic Destabilization from technological unemployment and wealth stratification.
- Climate Destabilization from Green House Gas emissions and other particulate pollution.
- Destruction and land pollution of 70%+ of the ecological land ecosystems and 30% of the ocean ecosystems, with mass species die-offs in the range of 10,000 extinct species per year.
- Dysfunctional Governments that function too slow for the needs of 21st century people.
- Basic access to food, water, health care, education, incomes/jobs, and other life necessities.

The foundation of the methodology for the Unity Network is that if we only solve one single issue, it could very well make the other crises worse, or cause other unforeseen crises within areas that aren't even current problems. Therefore our methodology consists of the theory of a comprehensive unified strategy and single interconnected series of solutions, as opposed to fragmented single solutions for single problems. We see this theory as just one of many possible options to solve our collective crises, but it is a viable option and should be included in all discussion about how we solve any individual crises. Even if there is a small probability that we can't solve any single crisis without solving all of them, we must consider this option as a viable solution. We see that there are common roots to all of our problems, and that there are collective solutions no matter what the problem is. Our hope is to educate and help provide an open framework for any issue or group to collaborate together and build support. Currently we see that many of the roots of our collective problems arise from un-representative democratic systems based on money and elite wealth having unequal power, so many of our current projects are solutions to that type of issue although we have many other seemingly unrelated issues and projects we also address and our focus can change at any time based on your and other peoples involvement and votes.

Some of the current activities we are working on:

- Community Elections, to prioritize ideas and proposals that anyone can input.
- Unity Flag, a visual iconic symbol of unity between the peoples movements. (Draft Example at the top of this Document.)
- Unity Day, an annual event to support building unity between all people and movements.
- People's Parallel Congress to create communication and representation for normal everyday People without influence from Money, Business, Lobbyists, or elite.
- The Comprehensive Plan, compilation of integrated step by step solutions to global crises, published along with an action adventure book.

Read below for More information about these projects.

Why do what we are doing?

Our view is that there is a growing laundry list of global problems and crises that our current/old social decision making systems are not dealing with sufficiently on behalf of the people. The old systems of dealing with these issues are still primarily based on democratic bodies rooted in 200 year old processes disconnected from the people, or single topic individual movements that are fragmented and divided. We simply have a possible theory, that no matter what the solution, it will effect all other problems as they are all interconnected, (just as a butterflies wings can cause hurricanes half way around the world). So our theory and methodology is one of the only ones where we stand for a comprehensive interconnected plan to solve all global problems and crises simultaneously, because if you just solve one, it could cause even more problems down the road. Of course this is just a theory, so we also support fragmented movements, yet we feel the option must be on the table for an integrated unified approach to solving global crises.

One of the key roots of our global crises that we see, is that our local and globalized society has out grown its decision making processes and is no longer capable of making difficult and essential decisions on behalf of the people. Our outdated government systems of democracy, although they are the most evolved in history, still are not meeting the needs of todays populations anymore, and many government bodies are gridlocked with disproportional representation for big money, lobbyists, corporate and national special interests. The top 85 wealthiest people of the world, hold half of the entire wealth of the planet and the 1%ers own 65 times the bottom half of the world population. Did those 85 people do 1/2 of the work of the world to create all that wealth? Did the 1% do 65 times the work of the bottom half to deserve 65 times the wealth? No, not even close, in fact they have done less productive work because they simply invest old money and fund other people to do the actual work for them, the system is flawed and is rigged for the richest of the rich, because work is undervalued and money is WAY overvalued and is pumped upstream. Year after year this money and wealth has been taken from the people, and the only reason that they continue to control the majority of humanities wealth and the power that comes along with it, is because we the people of the world continue to allow them to do so. FACT: At anytime we can collectively decide to take it back, as they have no right to it under the natural laws of our planet, because everyone has a right to meet their basic life necessities.

The people, according to almost all democratic government constitutions, hold the power to directly make decisions for themselves when it is not expressly written in the constitution. Many of our current crises that we face today did not exist when most of the democratic constitutions were written, or have not been added in, and therefore people, and in many cases only people, have the ability and power to come together and unify to make decisions for ourselves in the failure/absence of the ability for national and multi-national governments to enact workable solutions, most likely due to biases special interests. We need more Balance of Power and Separation of Powers within governance models that further increase individual and local freedoms by supporting the creation of new systems of democratic engagement including the Democratic Trilogy, of Participatory Democracy, Direct Democracy, and Representative Democracy, to represent PEOPLE separate from lobbyists, money, and business interests.

We can build on a methodology of open networking where anyone and everyone from any background and any interest can collaborate together even with different strategies and tactics using nodular, and holographic structures of self organizing. ALL PEOPLE must be created equal, and ALL IDEAS must be treated equal to allow anyone to openly and confidently express their ideas without ridicule, and for all ideas to be legitimately considered based on unbiased merit, without pre-judgement from individual or collective points of view. We call this “Ideaocracy” where all ideas are given equal consideration. Furthermore we need new economic systems based on natural laws to ensure access of basic life necessities for ALL PEOPLE and fair distribution of work, wealth, and income that doesn’t destroy the environment and the life systems of the planet that we depend on. The foundation of our human economy needs to be actual work, innovation, and equitable access to resources for individual freedoms and basic life necessities, and to end the existing era of the human economy being based on top down monetary control/investment, stock market gambling, market share domination, and purposefully allowing the limiting, in-debting and poverty of mass populations for the benefit of the few. Now is the time to enact alternatives, including far-fetched grassroots people-based systems, to solve our global crises. It can be done, and it can be done NOW if we all want it, so we need your help to make it happen.

About the Author:

Bio One:

Jay Blas Jacob Cabrera is a pioneer in the local and state-wide communities as one of the co-founders of the Student Sustainability Movement in California that has spread throughout the nation. Jacob co-founded many organization at UC Santa Cruz including the state-wide California Student Sustainability Coalition, CSSC, which collaborates with the UC Regents and the UC Office of the President to create and improve the first comprehensive sustainability policy in higher education...

Bio Two:

Jay Blas Jacob Cabrera, alumni from UC Santa Cruz with a degree in Environmental Studies & Biology, has a passion for uniting everyone's ideas together and a desire to live in Central & South America. During his undergraduate carrier he co-founded the California Student Sustainability Coalition (CSSC) as instrumental to getting the UC sustainability policy on green building passed by the UC Regents. He also was co-chair of the UCSC Student Environmental Center (SEC), co-founder of the Education for Sustainable Living Program (ESLP), and was elected Internal Vice Chair of the UCSC Student Union Assembly his senior Year. After graduation he was a staff for both the SEC and the CSSC statewide, and continues to advise many student organizations. Jacob loves broad based networking and was introduced to the "time and natural cycles" movement(s) through involvement with the Whole Earth Festival in UC Davis, and the Day out of Time Celebration in Ashland Oregon, where the North American hub for the Planet Art Network and the Foundation for the Law of Time come together.

Bio Three:

In college at UC Santa Cruz Jay spent his free time volunteering with a multitude of student organizations. He networked between many organizations and there was times when I was a core leader within 6 organizations including #2 in the Student government, while being an active member with 20 other organizations. But his main focus during that time was Sustainability groups. From 1999-2006 he helped create 8 organizations and started the campus sustainability movement at UC Santa Cruz and throughout California. The largest organizations that he co-founded was the California Student Sustainability Coalition, and the Education for Sustainable Living Program. He worked with the UC Regents to pass and implement one of the most comprehensive Sustainability Plans in higher education. The organization spread throughout all the UC system, CSU system, much of the California Community Colleges, and across the nation. At UC Santa Cruz they passed two successful ballot measures to raise a $360,000 annual permanent budget, and raised massive amounts of money with other organizations and created as many as 50 new job positions across the state including multiple Sustainability offices at various universities. Overall there is about a $1 million dollar annual budget between the network of organizations that he helped get started.

Yet his work went beyond just sustainability organizations. His focus has always been "Total Societal Transformation" and his work takes him to do what ever is going to be the best source to create that transformation. Right now, that transformation is happening within this new movement that is sweeping the world, and that is where he says he need to be.
